Gene,

I have now read Iris's very interesting piece; please convey my congratulation to her on such a clearly argued and thought-provoking article!

As I mentioned to you, we are planning as an institution to get to the bottom of the facts and methodological assumptions underlying this debate. Iris's article is an important contribution to that discussion.

Hi Steve:

As per our conversation yesterday, attached is Iris' article in Education Week on U.S. competitiveness and the demand for scientists and engineers.

Regards,
